The Eagles Have Landed, Among Other Things

You bet they did, with many being seen first on the west end of the Fox River near the dam. Then they headed to the east end overlooking parts of Lake Winnebago. (Water openings equal more fishies!) It has been a sight to behold, these majestic birds, and to see so many more than years before perhaps can be attributed to a better, more welcoming environment for these powerful, impressive birds of prey.

To note: most of the 60 species of eagle are from Eurasia and Africa. Beyond that, just 14 species can be found—2 in North America, 9 in Central and South America, and 3 in Australia. Aren't we Doty Islanders lucky!

Which leads us, in a round-about way, to keeping our Island forever welcoming and safe. Here are a few recommendations for an inviting Island, as in, did you know... Pet waste left on the ground increases public health risks by allowing harmful bacteria and nutrients to wash into the storm drain and eventually into Lake Winnebago or the Fox River.? Think about those repercussions, for people and our animal visitors. Clean up your doggie's doo-doo, folks. Thanks! And here's a bit more on outdoor maintenance .

A dandelion-free lawn is not a healthier lawn. Dandelions are deep rooted and help keep lawns aerated. Bees make their first crop of honey from dandelions. If you do use fertilizers or pesticides, use them sparingly. Avoid application if the forecast calls for rain; otherwise, chemicals will be washed into the lake. This runoff into the lake is partially to blame for the algae blooms in summer. Seep up yard debris rather than hosing down areas. Compost or recycle yard waste when possible.

Use a commercial car wash or wash your car on a lawn or other unpaved surface to minimize the amount of dirty, soapy water flowing into the storm drain. Remember: Storm drains connect to water bodies!

TREASURES IN THE TRUNK

An Article by the Menasha Historical Society

The Menasha Historical Society is the grateful recipient of a well-preserved steamer trunk recently donated by Tom and Jean Kelly of Oshkosh. Mrs. Kelly purchased the trunk at an estate sale on Doty Island over 30 years ago. It had been the property of Harrison A. Smith of Menasha. An amazing array of artifacts, maps and letters were found inside the trunk. One item of great interest is a leather-bound personal diary written by Mr. Smith between 1914 and 1918. Reading the diary of this remarkable man led us on a quest to learn more about his life.

Harrison Smith was born on Nov. 13, 1889, the son of a prominent physician and surgeon who lived in Neenah at the turn of the century. Harrison graduated from Princeton University in 1909 and eventually became a very successful businessman and president of the Wisconsin Container Corp. as well as a director of the John Strange Paper Company. He served as a captain of the artillery in France during the first World War. Much of the 109-page diary details his experiences during the war. Remarkably, his writing includes a vivid description of the details of Nov. 11, 1918, when the great war ended.

During his years in business, he became very active in community affairs and was a member of the Elks Club and North Shore Golf Club. Included in the trunk were many cards, social invitations and letters from friends who were residents of Neenah and Menasha and prominent members of our communities. Our research led to newspaper articles indicating Mr. Smith married Verona Elsner of Appleton in 1938. They were married in Chicago and made their home on Cleveland Street in Menasha. Harrison and Verona had no children, which may explain why his steamer trunk was not bequeathed to a relative. He passed away in April of 1960. Verona Smith continued to live for many years in the home they had built along the Fox River on Keyes Street. Mrs. Smith passed away at Oakridge Gardens Nursing Home in April of 2006 at the age of 105! The display we are creating at our Historical Society Museum includes the cap and gown Mr. Smith wore at his Princeton graduation. We will also display photos and many of the "treasures" he kept in the steamer trunk throughout the years. We are very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Kelly for their generous gift. It has become an important part of our museum collection. At the start of his diary, Mr. Smith writes that his original diary (or "little black book" as he called it) was begun during a trip to Canada. He wrote, "After surviving snow days, seemingly endless hardships, a plunge over the falls in the Chemachuan River and a drying in the sun" that book was lost on the last day of his travels. He hoped that the fate of this book would be different. We think he would be pleased to know that the book, found intact in the trunk, still exists and has given us an amazing look at his life.

PRESERVING HISTORY IN MENASHA

Emprize Brew Mill

Refurbished, reworked and renewed. That is the Emprize Brew Mill, the newest and most distinctive pub and eatery addition to downtown Menasha.

Working off the former Frankie's or most recently The Blind Pig, a long-time drinking and dancing establishment centered in downtown, the Brew Mill boasts a transformation of the old establishment with reverence to the authentic, architectural appeal of the original building.

It's a breath of fresh air. Owners Craig and Anna Zoltowski and Robert Ivey have undertaken a deep reformation of the full building, bringing out the original late 1800s/early 1900s character. Bought in June 2017, Craig and Robert had long entertained visions of opening a brewery together. "We live in Menasha and wanted to invest in our community," Anna noted. The Blind Pig or old Frankie's building seemed just right, despite the magnitude of acquiring and renovating 10,000 square feet. There isn't much that wasn't refinished on the first floor, from original maple flooring to brick and woodwork to the 20' tin ceiling. To gaze upon the beautifully revamped interior now is to experience a delightful surprise for those who have long known this establishment as Frankie's.

As Anna explains with pride, "The original tin ceiling in the billiards room was found hidden behind two ceilings and was sandblasted back to life," The kitchen was renovated and expanded. The second floor was kept as The Attic with its unique open-rafter look and layout. Once a platform for 'expressive' dancing, the upstairs still has the expansive dance floor but promotes a wider purpose. Yes, public dancing, but also varied dance groups book this ideal spot for practice. The upstairs alone can house roughly 200 people and has a grand few of the Fox River.

Aunt Esther's Attic moved into the 198 section in January 2018. The Zoltowski's and the local business community helped Colleen find her new home. By the end of February, The Brew Mill rebuilt the historic entrance of 198 by rejuvenating the grand showcase window entrance, using the hidden, original structure. It took round-the-clock sweat to get the entire building in working order, but as Anna reflects, "The bones of the place revealed so much. We uncovered the beauty of what was underneath (and) took away what distracted from the old 1800/early 1900 historic character." Also restored was the historic two-story Quaker Oat mural on the brick. The brick was scoured beyond clean and as Anna wryly noted, "It took us four days just to get the tar (nicotine) off the bricks."

Showcased now is warm, buffed woodwork with the handsome fretwork of the original wooden bar and back bar. The built-in ice boxes have been preserved, and the final result is a comfortable, up market but uncompromising haven minus the stark minimalist environment seen in so many current new bars and restaurants.

It's a breath of fresh air for everyone.

Top: Brew Mill's assorted beers.
